

Contaminazioni Festival 2019

E:UTSA MEMBERS

TEATRO INDIA, Lungotevere Vittorio Gassman 1, Rome

“Contaminazioni” is an independent Festival created by, and for, the students attending the National Academy of Dramatic Art “Silvio D’Amico” in Rome. It was founded in 2007 in order to give us the opportunity to experiment freely and to collaborate with students of other Roman institutions belonging to AFAM (Higher Artistic and Musical Institutions). The Festival’s aim is to create not only theatrical projects but also to promote a contamination among different artistic disciplines.

The Festival will take place from September 22nd to September 28th at Teatro India, in Rome.

The Organizing Committee asked itself about the festival’s mission and message it wants to share in 2019. The word "Contamination" [from the Latin contaminare; tangere "to touch"] means dirtying, staining, defacing, corrupting purity, melting, crossing. The connotation appears negative, but in a 2019 in which the fear of the “different” reigns, we think that Contamination can be seen as "let yourself be touched, or transformed; maybe the right antidote to the fear of the “other-I”, the “different”. Contamination represents an opportunity for personal and social innovation. It is a fusion, an encounter, an integration between different cultures.

We want to open our Festival TO YOU and give you the chance to take part in it.
